Generally a strong class of wines with few faults. Many wines lacked the intensity and punch to take them to the top level. Some wines that contained Chardonnay were too dominated by the variety and in the judges opinion not in style. Top wines were good examples of a range of styles, some with very classy use of oak.

A class of early bottled Chardonnays predictably lacking complexity and desirably having the pure tropical/citrus varietal character of Chardonnay in Margaret River. Too many wines substituting sugar for fruit.

This class is a tribute to the need for Shiraz as a marketing initiative versus the sustainability of Margaret River as a Shiraz region. The wines uniformly lacked Shiraz intensity and structure allowing alcohol and oak to dominate.

Strong class of wines with both '04 and '05 showing well. Top wines have lovely textures, purity of fruit, distinctive Cabernet, perfumed and beautiful tannins. In these wines the ripeness level was good and there was little over ripeness or jamminess. Too many wines showed poor colour and premature development. Many of these wines also showed under ripe flavours and tannins and Brettanomyces.

Difficult job sorting wheat from chaff - many wines worked in oak with lees and MLF to become tired, stale, coarse and propped by sweetness. The best are fresh with vibrant fruit layered gently with oak and lees treatment.

Disappointing class. Wines were generally disjointed and out of balance with either sugar, oak, development and oxidation. More purity of fruit flavour was expected.

Wines outlast the nature of the '02 and '03 vintages. Some '02's showing too much vegetable character. Some '03's too much 'dead fruit' character. The best wines are balanced with lively Margaret River Cabernet fruit.
